

TAGGART RETURNS

Report that He Brought $50,000 from Croker.

DENIAL BY STATE COMMITTEE AND TAGGART.

MAYOR'S ACCOUNT OF TRIP

OF COURSE HE SAW THE POLITICAL LEADER.

But Then He Really Went on Private Business, He Says—Other Accounts.

"Has Mayor Taggart sent around any of the money Croker gave him in New York to carry Indiana with?" was asked of Secretary Hawkins, of the Democratic State committee, to-day.

Hawkins laughed at the question before replying that Taggart had not been around. "And we don't need the money now," he added, with emphasis. At the committee rooms it has been stoutly denied that Taggart went to New York to get funds from the Tammany chieftain.

It was reported in a dispatch this forenoon that Taggart had been in New York, and that Croker had given him for use in this State.

Mayor Taggart, who has returned from New York, characterized the reports about his trip as the product of the feverish imagination of newspaper men and others interested in spreading such talk. "I did not go to New York to get money," he declared. "I had a private matter that took me there. While in New York, of course, I saw all of the leaders that are nearly all of them. I talked with them, but my business was not to get money. I did not paint any pictures, either, of the situation. I simply told that conditions seemed favorable and that I thought that we could carry the State."

The Democrats in New York

"Everything points to Democratic success in New York. Both the national and the State committees are doing great work there. The Democrats expect to carry greater New York by a majority of a hundred thousand than they did in the other parts of the State—in the Republican strongholds—the Democrats were well organized and would cut down the majorities. The President also points to success in Maryland and adjoining Eastern States."

Mayor Taggart was asked if he had not been responsible for the extension of David B. Hill's trip to the State. "I was partially responsible," said he, "that was one of the reasons why I went to New York."

The Hill-Croker feud as bitter as it has been reported.

"I do not think that it is. Hill is working a regular campaign. He is not only working and making speeches in New York, but he is also busy in Maryland, New Jersey, Connecticut and other States. The factions in New York seemed to be working in complete harmony for Croker."

"How is the betting in New York?"

"I believe that they are offering two to one on McKinley being elected."

Mayor Taggart said he did not know at this time if Bryan would make any other trip through Indiana just before the close of the campaign. Stevenson, he said, would make the trip, but he did not know if all of the bets had been arranged.

TAGGART'S HOT TOUCH

Story of His Getting $50,000 from Tammany.

CHICAGO, October 15.—William E. Curtis, telegraphing to the Record from Washington, D. C., says: I met some Indiana Democrats on the cars yesterday. They were jubilant because Tom Taggart, the central mayor of Indianapolis, told the Indiana members of the national Democratic committee, had touched "the Tammany tiger for $50,000 and was on his way home with the cash." "That," they declared, made a Democratic victory in Indiana certain and was equivalent to election of Bryan. They were so happy and confident that they believed that when they heard that Croker had "plunked" to distribute in Indiana the odds in the betting would be reversed and Bryan instead of McKinley, and this is the tale they told:

"The Indiana Democrats, as a rule, are poor, there are very few rich men in the party, and have gone over to McKinley. The State committee has exhausted its money and appealed in vain to the Democratic national committee in Chicago. The latter is also 'broke.' It takes all the solicitors can rake up to pay the printing bills, the expenses of their speakers and Bryan's tour, and they have spent every dollar they could get from Nebraska and South Dakota. They have only given a cent to any other State, and this is the tale they told:

"The Indiana Democrats, as a rule, are poor, there are very few rich men in the party, and have gone over to McKinley. The State committee has exhausted its money and appealed in vain to the Democratic national committee in Chicago. The latter is also 'broke.' It takes all the solicitors can rake up to pay the printing bills, the expenses of their speakers and Bryan's tour, and they have spent every dollar they could get from Nebraska and South Dakota. They have only given a cent to any other State, and this is the tale they told:

SANTO DOMINGO'S WANTS.

Indiana Man Will Attempt to Negotiate a Loan.

NEW YORK, October 15.—On a secret mission to Santo Domingo, where he has arrived, says the World, William Swift, formerly of Logansport, Ind., now confidential adviser of President McKim, is endeavoring to secure a loan for the purpose of negotiating a loan sufficient to enable the government to pay its debts to the United States.

Mr. Swift said that in 1898 Santo Domingo was a bankrupt country, and that the indebtedness has since grown to about $30,000,000.

A CRUEL FATHER.

Specified in His Will that Daughters Must Not Marry Americans.

LONDON, October 15.—The will of J. B. Clayton, the son of the late member of Parliament of that name, has just been probated.

The late Mr. Clayton left a fortune of $14,000,000, and his will contained a curious provision that the money is only to be payable if they all marry a foreigner. The will also provided that if a daughter of the late Mr. Clayton marries a citizen of the United States or a Heiress, the reason for this proviso is not given.

WAS SHE MURDERED?

Prominent Young Woman Found Dead at Phillipsburg, Mont.

PHILLIPSBURG, Mont., October 15.—Miss Amanda Williams, a prominent young woman, was found dead in her room, having been shot with a shotgun. A shotgun was lying on the floor, and it is believed she was murdered.

DOWIEITE MOVED ON.

Police Hushed Him Out of Mansfield, Ohio.

KILLED ON A WRECK

R. B. Jerusalem, Formerly of This City, a Victim.

CHARRED BODY TAKEN FROM RUINS THIS MORNING.

DISASTER NEAR PURCELL, IND

E. & T. H. FREIGHT TRAIN WAS DERAILED BY A COW.

Cars Were Piled on Top of the Engine—Flames Reduced the Wreckage to Ashes.

KILLED.

R. B. JERUSALEM, Vincennes, Missing.

HEAD BREAKMAN, whose body is thought to be under the wreckage.

INJURED.

WM. DOCK, Evansville, Ind., collar bone broken.

THOS. ENRIGHT, Henderson, Ky., right arm and leg broken.

JOSEPH ALSOP, New Harmony, Ind., breast crushed.

[Special to The Indianapolis News.]

VINCENNES, Ind., October 15.—A disaster that proves more and more terrible as the search of the wreckage proceeds occurred near Purcell station, seven miles south of here, on the E. & T. H. railroad, yesterday afternoon.

The first section of freight train No. 57 was going at high speed when, straight ahead on the track, a cow was seen. The animal refused to be frightened off and was struck, derailing the train and piling seventeen oil tank cars on top of the engine.

Flames Broke Out.

The coals from the fire-box of the engine came in contact with the oil from the exploding tanks, and soon the wreckage was in flames. William Dock, of Evansville, was in a box car with two race horses belonging to an Evansville man by the name of McKinley. They were returning from the Evansville fair. One of the horses, a grey gelding, was killed and the other was badly injured.

Thomas Enright, of Henderson, Ky., was killed. He was in a box car with a horse belonging to an Evansville man by the name of McKinley. They were returning from the Evansville fair. One of the horses, a grey gelding, was killed and the other was badly injured.

Joseph Alsop, of New Harmony, Ind., was killed. He was in a box car with a horse belonging to an Evansville man by the name of McKinley. They were returning from the Evansville fair. One of the horses, a grey gelding, was killed and the other was badly injured.

William Dock, of Evansville, was injured. He was in a box car with two race horses belonging to an Evansville man by the name of McKinley. They were returning from the Evansville fair. One of the horses, a grey gelding, was killed and the other was badly injured.

Head breakman, whose body is thought to be under the wreckage.

Collar bone broken.

Right arm and leg broken.

Breast crushed.

[Special to The Indianapolis News.]

VINCENNES, Ind., October 15.—A disaster that proves more and more terrible as the search of the wreckage proceeds occurred near Purcell station, seven miles south of here, on the E. & T. H. railroad, yesterday afternoon.

The first section of freight train No. 57 was going at high speed when, straight ahead on the track, a cow was seen. The animal refused to be frightened off and was struck, derailing the train and piling seventeen oil tank cars on top of the engine.

Flames Broke Out.

The coals from the fire-box of the engine came in contact with the oil from the exploding tanks, and soon the wreckage was in flames. William Dock, of Evansville, was in a box car with two race horses belonging to an Evansville man by the name of McKinley. They were returning from the Evansville fair. One of the horses, a grey gelding, was killed and the other was badly injured.

Thomas Enright, of Henderson, Ky., was killed. He was in a box car with a horse belonging to an Evansville man by the name of McKinley. They were returning from the Evansville fair. One of the horses, a grey gelding, was killed and the other was badly injured.

Joseph Alsop, of New Harmony, Ind., was killed. He was in a box car with a horse belonging to an Evansville man by the name of McKinley. They were returning from the Evansville fair. One of the horses, a grey gelding, was killed and the other was badly injured.

William Dock, of Evansville, was injured. He was in a box car with two race horses belonging to an Evansville man by the name of McKinley. They were returning from the Evansville fair. One of the horses, a grey gelding, was killed and the other was badly injured.

Head breakman, whose body is thought to be under the wreckage.

Collar bone broken.

Right arm and leg broken.

Breast crushed.

[Special to The Indianapolis News.]

VINCENNES, Ind., October 15.—A disaster that proves more and more terrible as the search of the wreckage proceeds occurred near Purcell station, seven miles south of here, on the E. & T. H. railroad, yesterday afternoon.

The first section of freight train No. 57 was going at high speed when, straight ahead on the track, a cow was seen. The animal refused to be frightened off and was struck, derailing the train and piling seventeen oil tank cars on top of the engine.

Flames Broke Out.

The coals from the fire-box of the engine came in contact with the oil from the exploding tanks, and soon the wreckage was in flames. William Dock, of Evansville, was in a box car with two race horses belonging to an Evansville man by the name of McKinley. They were returning from the Evansville fair. One of the horses, a grey gelding, was killed and the other was badly injured.

Thomas Enright, of Henderson, Ky., was killed. He was in a box car with a horse belonging to an Evansville man by the name of McKinley. They were returning from the Evansville fair. One of the horses, a grey gelding, was killed and the other was badly injured.

Joseph Alsop, of New Harmony, Ind., was killed. He was in a box car with a horse belonging to an Evansville man by the name of McKinley. They were returning from the Evansville fair. One of the horses, a grey gelding, was killed and the other was badly injured.

William Dock, of Evansville, was injured. He was in a box car with two race horses belonging to an Evansville man by the name of McKinley. They were returning from the Evansville fair. One of the horses, a grey gelding, was killed and the other was badly injured.

KILLED ON A WRECK

R. B. Jerusalem, Formerly of This City, a Victim.

CHARRED BODY TAKEN FROM RUINS THIS MORNING.

DISASTER NEAR PURCELL, IND

E. & T. H. FREIGHT TRAIN WAS DERAILED BY A COW.

Cars Were Piled on Top of the Engine—Flames Reduced the Wreckage to Ashes.

KILLED.

R. B. JERUSALEM, Vincennes, Missing.

HEAD BREAKMAN, whose body is thought to be under the wreckage.

INJURED.

WM. DOCK, Evansville, Ind., collar bone broken.

THOS. ENRIGHT, Henderson, Ky., right arm and leg broken.

JOSEPH ALSOP, New Harmony, Ind., breast crushed.

[Special to The Indianapolis News.]

VINCENNES, Ind., October 15.—A disaster that proves more and more terrible as the search of the wreckage proceeds occurred near Purcell station, seven miles south of here, on the E. & T. H. railroad, yesterday afternoon.

The first section of freight train No. 57 was going at high speed when, straight ahead on the track, a cow was seen. The animal refused to be frightened off and was struck, derailing the train and piling seventeen oil tank cars on top of the engine.

Flames Broke Out.

The coals from the fire-box of the engine came in contact with the oil from the exploding tanks, and soon the wreckage was in flames. William Dock, of Evansville, was in a box car with two race horses belonging to an Evansville man by the name of McKinley. They were returning from the Evansville fair. One of the horses, a grey gelding, was killed and the other was badly injured.

Thomas Enright, of Henderson, Ky., was killed. He was in a box car with a horse belonging to an Evansville man by the name of McKinley. They were returning from the Evansville fair. One of the horses, a grey gelding, was killed and the other was badly injured.

Joseph Alsop, of New Harmony, Ind., was killed. He was in a box car with a horse belonging to an Evansville man by the name of McKinley. They were returning from the Evansville fair. One of the horses, a grey gelding, was killed and the other was badly injured.

William Dock, of Evansville, was injured. He was in a box car with two race horses belonging to an Evansville man by the name of McKinley. They were returning from the Evansville fair. One of the horses, a grey gelding, was killed and the other was badly injured.

Head breakman, whose body is thought to be under the wreckage.

Collar bone broken.

Right arm and leg broken.

Breast crushed.

[Special to The Indianapolis News.]

VINCENNES, Ind., October 15.—A disaster that proves more and more terrible as the search of the wreckage proceeds occurred near Purcell station, seven miles south of here, on the E. & T. H. railroad, yesterday afternoon.

The first section of freight train No. 57 was going at high speed when, straight ahead on the track, a cow was seen. The animal refused to be frightened off and was struck, derailing the train and piling seventeen oil tank cars on top of the engine.

Flames Broke Out.

The coals from the fire-box of the engine came in contact with the oil from the exploding tanks, and soon the wreckage was in flames. William Dock, of Evansville, was in a box car with two race horses belonging to an Evansville man by the name of McKinley. They were returning from the Evansville fair. One of the horses, a grey gelding, was killed and the other was badly injured.

Thomas Enright, of Henderson, Ky., was killed. He was in a box car with a horse belonging to an Evansville man by the name of McKinley. They were returning from the Evansville fair. One of the horses, a grey gelding, was killed and the other was badly injured.

Joseph Alsop, of New Harmony, Ind., was killed. He was in a box car with a horse belonging to an Evansville man by the name of McKinley. They were returning from the Evansville fair. One of the horses, a grey gelding, was killed and the other was badly injured.

William Dock, of Evansville, was injured. He was in a box car with two race horses belonging to an Evansville man by the name of McKinley. They were returning from the Evansville fair. One of the horses, a grey gelding, was killed and the other was badly injured.

Head breakman, whose body is thought to be under the wreckage.

Collar bone broken.

Right arm and leg broken.

Breast crushed.

[Special to The Indianapolis News.]

VINCENNES, Ind., October 15.—A disaster that proves more and more terrible as the search of the wreckage proceeds occurred near Purcell station, seven miles south of here, on the E. & T. H. railroad, yesterday afternoon.

The first section of freight train No. 57 was going at high speed when, straight ahead on the track, a cow was seen. The animal refused to be frightened off and was struck, derailing the train and piling seventeen oil tank cars on top of the engine.

Flames Broke Out.

The coals from the fire-box of the engine came in contact with the oil from the exploding tanks, and soon the wreckage was in flames. William Dock, of Evansville, was in a box car with two race horses belonging to an Evansville man by the name of McKinley. They were returning from the Evansville fair. One of the horses, a grey gelding, was killed and the other was badly injured.

Thomas Enright, of Henderson, Ky., was killed. He was in a box car with a horse belonging to an Evansville man by the name of McKinley. They were returning from the Evansville fair. One of the horses, a grey gelding, was killed and the other was badly injured.

Joseph Alsop, of New Harmony, Ind., was killed. He was in a box car with a horse belonging to an Evansville man by the name of McKinley. They were returning from the Evansville fair. One of the horses, a grey gelding, was killed and the other was badly injured.

William Dock, of Evansville, was injured. He was in a box car with two race horses belonging to an Evansville man by the name of McKinley. They were returning from the Evansville fair. One of the horses, a grey gelding, was killed and the other was badly injured.

KILLED ON A WRECK

R. B. Jerusalem, Formerly of This City, a Victim.

CHARRED BODY TAKEN FROM RUINS THIS MORNING.

DISASTER NEAR PURCELL, IND

E. & T. H. FREIGHT TRAIN WAS DERAILED BY A COW.

Cars Were Piled on Top of the Engine—Flames Reduced the Wreckage to Ashes.

KILLED.

R. B. JERUSALEM, Vincennes, Missing.

HEAD BREAKMAN, whose body is thought to be under the wreckage.

INJURED.

WM. DOCK, Evansville, Ind., collar bone broken.

THOS. ENRIGHT, Henderson, Ky., right arm and leg broken.

JOSEPH ALSOP, New Harmony, Ind., breast crushed.

[Special to The Indianapolis News.]

VINCENNES, Ind., October 15.—A disaster that proves more and more terrible as the search of the wreckage proceeds occurred near Purcell station, seven miles south of here, on the E. & T. H. railroad, yesterday afternoon.

The first section of freight train No. 57 was going at high speed when, straight ahead on the track, a cow was seen. The animal refused to be frightened off and was struck, derailing the train and piling seventeen oil tank cars on top of the engine.

Flames Broke Out.

The coals from the fire-box of the engine came in contact with the oil from the exploding tanks, and soon the wreckage was in flames. William Dock, of Evansville, was in a box car with two race horses belonging to an Evansville man by the name of McKinley. They were returning from the Evansville fair. One of the horses, a grey gelding, was killed and the other was badly injured.

Thomas Enright, of Henderson, Ky., was killed. He was in a box car with a horse belonging to an Evansville man by the name of McKinley. They were returning from the Evansville fair. One of the horses, a grey gelding, was killed and the other was badly injured.

Joseph Alsop, of New Harmony, Ind., was killed. He was in a box car with a horse belonging to an Evansville man by the name of McKinley. They were returning from the Evansville fair. One of the horses, a grey gelding, was killed and the other was badly injured.

William Dock, of Evansville, was injured. He was in a box car with two race horses belonging to an Evansville man by the name of McKinley. They were returning from the Evansville fair. One of the horses, a grey gelding, was killed and the other was badly injured.

Head breakman, whose body is thought to be under the wreckage.

Collar bone broken.

Right arm and leg broken.

Breast crushed.

[Special to The Indianapolis News.]

VINCENNES, Ind., October 15.—A disaster that proves more and more terrible as the search of the wreckage proceeds occurred near Purcell station, seven miles south of here, on the E. & T. H. railroad, yesterday afternoon.

The first section of freight train No. 57 was going at high speed when, straight ahead on the track, a cow was seen. The animal refused to be frightened off and was struck, derailing the train and piling seventeen oil tank cars on top of the engine.

Flames Broke Out.

The coals from the fire-box of the engine came in contact with the oil from the exploding tanks, and soon the wreckage was in flames. William Dock, of Evansville, was in a box car with two race horses belonging to an Evansville man by the name of McKinley. They were returning from the Evansville fair. One of the horses, a grey gelding, was killed and the other was badly injured.

Thomas Enright, of Henderson, Ky., was killed. He was in a box car with a horse belonging to an Evansville man by the name of McKinley. They were returning from the Evansville fair. One of the horses, a grey gelding, was killed and the other was badly injured.

Joseph Alsop, of New Harmony, Ind., was killed. He was in a box car with a horse belonging to an Evansville man by the name of McKinley. They were returning from the Evansville fair. One of the horses, a grey gelding, was killed and the other was badly injured.

William Dock, of Evansville, was injured. He was in a box car with two race horses belonging to an Evansville man by the name of McKinley. They were returning from the Evansville fair. One of the horses, a grey gelding, was killed and the other was badly injured.

Head breakman, whose body is thought to be under the wreckage.

Collar bone broken.

Right arm and leg broken.

Breast crushed.

[Special to The Indianapolis News.]

VINCENNES, Ind., October 15.—A disaster that proves more and more terrible as the search of the wreckage proceeds occurred near Purcell station, seven miles south of here, on the E. & T. H. railroad, yesterday afternoon.

The first section of freight train No. 57 was going at high speed when, straight ahead on the track, a cow was seen. The animal refused to be frightened off and was struck, derailing the train and piling seventeen oil tank cars on top of the engine.

Flames Broke Out.

The coals from the fire-box of the engine came in contact with the oil from the exploding tanks, and soon the wreckage was in flames. William Dock, of Evansville, was in a box car with two race horses belonging to an Evansville man by the name of McKinley. They were returning from the Evansville fair. One of the horses, a grey gelding, was killed and the other was badly injured.

Thomas Enright, of Henderson, Ky., was killed. He was in a box car with a horse belonging to an Evansville man by the name of McKinley. They were returning from the Evansville fair. One of the horses, a grey gelding, was killed and the other was badly injured.

Joseph Alsop, of New Harmony, Ind., was killed. He was in a box car with a horse belonging to an Evansville man by the name of McKinley. They were returning from the Evansville fair. One of the horses, a grey gelding, was killed and the other was badly injured.

William Dock, of Evansville, was injured. He was in a box car with two race horses belonging to an Evansville man by the name of McKinley. They were returning from the Evansville fair. One of the horses, a grey gelding, was killed and the other was badly injured.

KILLED ON A WRECK

R. B. Jerusalem, Formerly of This City, a Victim.

CHARRED BODY TAKEN FROM RUINS THIS MORNING.

DISASTER NEAR PURCELL, IND

E. & T. H. FREIGHT TRAIN WAS DERAILED BY A COW.

Cars Were Piled on Top of the Engine—Flames Reduced the Wreckage to Ashes.

KILLED.

R. B. JERUSALEM, Vincennes, Missing.

HEAD BREAKMAN, whose body is thought to be under the wreckage.

INJURED.

WM. DOCK, Evansville, Ind., collar bone broken.

THOS. ENRIGHT, Henderson, Ky., right arm and leg broken.

JOSEPH ALSOP, New Harmony, Ind., breast crushed.

[Special to The Indianapolis News.]

VINCENNES, Ind., October 15.—A disaster that proves more and more terrible as the search of the wreckage proceeds occurred near Purcell station, seven miles south of here, on the E. & T. H. railroad, yesterday afternoon.

The first section of freight train No. 57 was going at high speed when, straight ahead on the track, a cow was seen. The animal refused to be frightened off and was struck, derailing the train and piling seventeen oil tank cars on top of the engine.

Flames Broke Out.

The coals from the fire-box of the engine came in contact with the oil from the exploding tanks, and soon the wreckage was in flames. William Dock, of Evansville, was in a box car with two race horses belonging to an Evansville man by the name of McKinley. They were returning from the Evansville fair. One of the horses, a grey gelding, was killed and the other was badly injured.

Thomas Enright, of Henderson, Ky., was killed. He was in a box car with a horse belonging to an Evansville man by the name of McKinley. They were returning from the Evansville fair. One of the horses, a grey gelding, was killed and the other was badly injured.

Joseph Alsop, of New Harmony, Ind., was killed. He was in a box car with a horse belonging to an Evansville man by the name of McKinley. They were returning from the Evansville fair. One of the horses, a grey gelding, was killed and the other was badly injured.

William Dock, of Evansville, was injured. He was in a box car with two race horses belonging to an Evansville man by the name of McKinley. They were returning from the Evansville fair. One of the horses, a grey gelding, was killed and the other was badly injured.

Head breakman, whose body is thought to be under the wreckage.

Collar bone broken.

Right arm and leg broken.

Breast crushed.

[Special to The Indianapolis News.]

VINCENNES, Ind., October 15.—A disaster that proves more and more terrible as the search of the wreckage proceeds occurred near Purcell station, seven miles south of here, on the E. & T. H. railroad, yesterday afternoon.

The first section of freight train No. 57 was going at high speed when, straight ahead on the track, a cow was seen

